Username	Post: Wa-Gyuto Master List (Topic#814645)
Andy777 Master Member KnifeNut! 	02-10-08 12:59.45 - Post#1445328 I've really come to enjoy and appreciate using wa-gyutos, but unfortunately they are not as prevalent as their western style counterparts. So I decided we need a master list of all wa-gyutos available to refer to as I (and those smart enough to like wa-gyutos) plan future purchases. Feel free to add any I missed or that you come across. Thanks!

If you don't mind paying additional cost, DankeDanke can receive items available online to the Japanese domestic market at a Japanese address and mail these items overseas. I've heard good things but have never tried this service myself.

Besides the white steel #2 KS312x series wa-gyuto, Masamoto Sohonton has a "Sweden Steel" SW312x series wa-gyuto that's a little more expensive. It's in their catalog and I've seen it on sites in Japan. I don't know anything more about it.

Welcome back, Andy! I was away from knife sites for a while too. Looking forward to your wa-gyuto escapades. Guess you've gotta get some more Japanese steel to accessorize your handles! 🤖 🍻 🍻 🍻
